What progress have states made in the last year to adopt and fully implement a state minimum wage of $10.00 or greater?

State labor statutes, state administrative codes, ballot initiatives, and other relevant government documents were used as the sources to evaluate states' progress toward adopting and fully implementing a minimum wage of $10.00 or greater. The sources and detailed methodology used to assess a state's current minimum wage, subminimum wage for tipped workers and workers with disabilities, scheduled minimum wage increases, and preemption laws can be found within the next section (measures 1, 3, 4, 5 and 6). All other sources used to assess states' progress can be found below.

We also performed an electronic search using Quorum State between August 15, 2024 and August 15, 2025 to assess legislative progress pertaining to the state minimum wage. The main search strategy used combinations of keywords for proposals to increase the regular state minimum wage ("minimum wage rate" OR "minimum hourly rate OR "every employer shall pay" OR "minimum wage established by this subsection", OR ("minimum wage" AND NOT ("prevailing wage" OR teachers OR "poll workers" OR "direct service" OR "health care" OR "unemployment compensation" OR utilities OR energy OR construction OR "state employees")); to increase the tipped minimum wage ("tipped minimum wage" OR "tipped hourly rate" OR gratuity WITHIN 10 OF "minimum wage" OR gratuity WITHIN 10 OF "hourly rate" OR "hourly wage" WITHIN 5 of "tipped employee" OR minimum wage AND tip credit); to increase the minimum wage for workers with disabilities ("subminimum wage", OR 14c AND (minimum wage OR minimum hourly rate), OR exemptions WITHIN 5 of minimum wage, OR (minimum wage OR subminimum wage) AND (disability OR disabled), OR "employment first"; or impact the ability of localities to increase the state minimum wage ("local minimum wage" OR political subdivision WITHIN 5 OF "minimum wage" OR locality WITHIN 5 OF "minimum wage"). Research staff conducted searches, analyzed results for relevant state legislation, and summarized progress states made towards adopting and fully implementing increases in the state minimum wage.

This section also contains the sources for the information presented in the individual state Roadmaps.

How does the state minimum wage vary across states?

Data were collected for nine different measures to assess how states vary in their minimum wage policies and the impact on earnings for workers in each state. The datasets, calculations, and sources referenced for each state are listed below. This section also contains the sources for the information presented in the individual state Roadmaps.

Measures 1, 3, 4, & 6: Current nominal state minimum wage (measure 1), current state tipped minimum wage (measure 3), law prohibiting subminimum wages for workers with disabilities (measure 4), and scheduled increases to the state minimum wage (measure 6)

Measure 1 Definition:

Current state hourly minimum wage (nominal) for large employers

Measure 3 Definition:

Current state minimum wage for tipped workers

Measure 4 Definition:

The state is phasing out or fully eliminating the subminimum wage for workers with disabilities.

Measure 6 Definition:

The state has scheduled increases to the minimum wage, including both legislatively established increases and annual cost-of-living adjustments.

Measures 1, 3, 4 & 6 Notes:

- 1. According to the US Dept. of Labor, Wage and Hour Division, workers can be covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) through "enterprise coverage" or "individual coverage." Enterprise coverage applies to businesses with an annual dollar volume of sales or business of at least $500,000, and to hospitals, businesses providing medical or nursing care for residents, schools and preschools, and hospital agencies. Workers without enterprise coverage can be protected by the FLSA through individual coverage if their work involves interstate commerce or if they are domestic service workers, such as housekeepers, full-time babysitters, or cooks. Some exceptions for FLSA coverage apply to workers with disabilities, full-time students, individuals under 20 years old in their first 90 consecutive calendar days of employment, tipped employees, and students enrolled in vocational education programs.
- 2. Some states allow lower minimum wages to be set for employees working for employers below a certain threshold of number of employees or annual revenue, employees under the age of 18, employees in an initial "training" window of employment, and for employees who regularly receive more than $30 a month in tips.
- 3. In five states, there is no legislated state minimum wage (Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, and Tennessee). In two states, the state minimum wage is set below the federal minimum wage (Georgia and Wyoming). The Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) applies for covered workers in these states.
- 4. In Montana, the state minimum wage only applies to businesses with gross annual sales of more than $110,000.
- 5. The minimum wage in New Jersey for seasonal and small employers (fewer than 6 employees) is $14.53. The minimum wage for seasonal and small employers is scheduled to reach $15.00 by 2026.
- 6. The minimum wage in Ohio varies based on employer size. The minimum wage for small employers (less than $342,000 in annual revenues) is $7.25.
- 7. In six states, there is no legislated minimum wage for tipped workers (Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, and Tennessee). The Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) applies for covered tipped workers in these states.
- 8. States often have subminimum wage amounts that are tied to the regular minimum wage value, either as set percentages or specific dollar amounts below the regular minimum wage.
- 9. In Connecticut, the tipped minimum wage is $6.38 for hotel and restaurant industry workers, excluding bartenders. The tipped minimum wage for bartenders is $8.23.

Measure 2: Current cost-of-living adjustment minimum wage

Definition:

Current cost-of-living adjusted minimum wage

Notes:

- Measure 2 is calculated by applying the state's 2023 regional price parities index value for all items to the state's 2025 nominal minimum wage (measure 1). Regional Price Parities (RPPs) measure the differences in price levels across states and metropolitan areas for a given year and are expressed as a percentage of the overall national price level. All items RPPs cover all consumption goods and services, including housing rents. Areas with high/low RPPs typically correspond to areas with high/low price levels for rents.
- 2. Cost-of-living adjustments were calculated following the methodology used by researchers with the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.<sup>1</sup>

Measure 7: Percentage of children under age 3 with at least one parent working full-time living near poverty

Definition:

The percentage of children under age 3 with at least one parent who worked full-time during the last year (at least 35 hours per day for at least 50 weeks out of the year) whose family income is below 150% of the Federal Poverty Level (FPL)

Notes:

- Numerator: The number of children under age 3 with at least one parent who reported working full-time during the last year (at least 35 hours per day for at least 50 weeks of the year) whose family income is below 150% FPL.
- 2. Denominator: The number of children under age 3 with known family poverty status with at least one parent who reported working full-time during the last year (at least 35 hours per day for at least 50 weeks of the year).
- 3. Children living in group quarters or who were unrelated to the head of household (e.g., foster children or children of unmarried cohabiters) were excluded from the sample.
- 4. The poverty threshold uses the US Census calculation of poverty and is based on the total income of all individuals aged 15 or older who are related to the head of household through marriage, birth or adoption. Income from cohabiting partners who are not married and unrelated children (including foster children) are not included in the calculation of family income. This family income is compared to federal poverty thresholds based on related family size and composition.<sup>2</sup>
- 5. All estimates were calculated in Stata 18 using both ACS person-level weights, to provide national and state representative estimates, and replicate weights to appropriately adjust standard errors to account for any sampling bias. The US Census Bureau recommends using a 90% confidence interval for evaluating the accuracy of estimates using ACS data.
- 6. Given the age and employment limits imposed on the sample (children under age 3 with at least one full-time working parent) and the calculation estimates by state, two years of ACS data were combined to improve data quality and accuracy and all weights were appropriately adjusted to account for the combined years of data. Incorporating both population and sampling weights helps to account for exogenous sources of variance and improve the accuracy of estimates.
- 7. Parents' resident status with the child was determined by merging in the parent location variables (momloc, momloc2, poploc, poploc2), as determined by the University of Minnesota's IPUMS USA and available in the single

- year IPUMS ACS data file, with the corresponding ACS 1-Year PUMS data file. The IPUMS familial interrelationship variables were used in the identification of resident parents as they allow for the identification and inclusion of both cohabiting and same sex couples.<sup>3</sup>
- 8. The confidence interval for Alaska's and Wyoming's estimates exceeded the recommended 10% margin of error, both at 10.1%.

Measure 8: Number of workers who earn less than $10.00 per hour

Definition:

The number of workers who report earning an hourly wage whose hourly wage is less than $10.00 per hour at their current job

Notes:

- 1. The estimates reflect the number of civilians age 15 or older who are employed as wage or salary workers and report earning an hourly wage. These workers are asked to report their hourly wage at their current job. Workers who report they are not paid hourly are not included in the estimate of workers earning less than $10.00 per hour. These variables exclude people who are self-employed.
- 2. We pool 12 months of monthly CPS data (May 2025 through April 2025) to increase sample size and generate more reliable estimates.
- 3. All estimates were calculated in Stata 19 using both the Census Bureau person-level weights designed to be used in analyses of earnings, to provide state representative estimates.
- 4. The methods for this measure were inspired by Ben Casselman and Lydia DePillis' work at The New York Times<sup>4</sup>.
